Ike Uneasy On Barry's 'Extremism' Statement

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Sunday Sen. Barry Goldwater's remarks on extremism "would seem to say that the end always justifies the means . . ." He added "the whole American system refutes that idea and that concept."

Eisenhower appeared on an American Broadcasting Co. television program and discussed Goldwater's speech accepting the Republican Presidential nomination. The program was videotaped in San Francisco Friday.

ABC later explained the interview was taped before Eisenhower met with Sen. Goldwater in San Francisco Friday, a session at which the extremism passage was discussed.

The former President said also he probably would repeat his pre-convention role as a neutral another time, that he was opposed to debates between presidential candidates and that he regarded convention demonstrations as infantile.

Eisenhower was interviewed by James C. Hagerty, his former White House press secretary and now ABC-Paramount Pictures vice president for corporate relations, and William H. Lawrence, ABC news political editor.

Eisenhower said Goldwater's speech "by and large" was very outstanding.

Lawrence asked his reaction to the senator's statements that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice and that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue.

"They do cause question in the mind," Eisenhower said, "the second you try to analyze them. . . .

"Actually, in the first one it would seem to say that the end always justifies the means and the whole American system refutes that idea and that concept.

"You could analyze them, of course, at some length but I think that they are not the kind of statement that will stand the test of complete analysis. . . .

'I don' know what moderation means. Moderation, if you say it is slovenliness, why that is something else. If we interpret the word moderation to mean reasonableness then, of course, our whole system insists that we be reasonable in the pursuit of justice."

Hagerty commented that Goldwater's democratic opposition already was making an issue of the senator's remarks and that he suspected "we have not heard the last of these two sentences in this campaign."

"Well," said Eisenhower, "I tell you I personally think that they will be explained in the terms of what the writer, the speaker was trying to say.

"But, as I say, any of us—all of us here, obviously are trying to make our own interpretations and I think a speech of that kind, it should stand on its own feet."

(In Phoenix Saturday, Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign manager, quoted Eisenhower as saying he would be glad to help Goldwater in the campaign against President Johnson.

(Kitchel also said the former president felt Goldwater should clarify for the voters his defense of extremism in the cause of liberty, a statement the nominee made in his acceptance speech.

(Kitchel told of the Eisenhower-Goldwater meeting Friday in San Francisco. At that session, Kitchel said, Goldwater told Eisenhower his reference to extremism 'dealt with patriotism and the defense of liberty at home and abroad."

(The campaign manager said Eisenhower told Goldwater the explanation made sense "and that he was glad to get the clarification but that he felt the senator during the campaign would have to refer to what he meant several times.")

Eisenhower said he thought Laos, Vietnam, Cuba and policies against Communists were proper subjects for debate during the campaign.

Hardest hit was Shimane Prefecture, about 400 miles west of Tokyo, where 92 were reported killed, 31 missing and 188 injured. It was the highest death toll in Shimane since the war. Most of the deaths, police said, were caused by landslides that burried homes and occupants.

Wallace Backs Out Of Race; Will Support 'Conservative'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama withdrew as an independent candidate for president Sunday but refused to endorse any other aspirant for the top office of the land.

The governor, a Democrat, said he would support whichever major party candidate proved to be the more conservative and zealous in upholding the principles of free enterprise, local government and states rights which he has advocated.

In Austin, Tex., White House press secretary George Reedy, asked whether he wanted to comment on Wallace's move, said "No," but added: "Gov. Wallace is entitled to any decision he wishes to make."

A Democratic National Committee spokesman here likewise declined comment and there was no immediate reaction from the Republican National Committee.

Wallace, interviewed on the CBS radio and television show "Face the Nation," declined repeatedly under questioning to say whether his action meant most of the vote he would have drawn with his anticivil rights campaign would now go to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican nominee.

'Time Will Tell'

'Time will tell," he said and indicated he would know more—and say more—after the Democratic National Convention is held in Atlantic City, N.J., next month.

Wallace, who had expected to be on the ballot in 16 or more states, is a strong opponent of the recently enacted civil rights law.

He entered Democratic presidential primaries in Wisconsin, Maryland and other states and made a number of strong showings, then followed this up with a campaign to win enough presidential electors in November to throw the final presidential election into the House of Representatives.

"There is now more states rights talk than in a quarter of a century" Wallace said "I was the instrument of this. This message has been heeded."

He then announced his purpose had been accomplished and he was withdrawing.

Gov. George Wallace

The Alabama governor denied his decision had been made or influenced by anyone in either the Republican or Democratic parties.

"I have never ever met Sen. Goldwater," Wallace said. "I have talked to no one on his staff nor has anyone on my staff talked to the staff of Sen. Goldwater.

'No Agreements'

"There's been no agreement made with anyone—no secret arrangement or agreement."

Wallace said the response he has received across the nation means that "in my judgment the people of the South are going to wipe the smiles off the liberals in this country."

He said he was sure his message was going to be heeded in Atlantic City, and predicted no candidate could win without the support of the South.

The governor strongly condemned the federal court system and its support of the civil rights movement. He also criticized the press, and spoke out against violence.

"I don't believe in violence," he said, claiming: "There has been more violence in one subway in New York City in one day than in Mississippi in one year."

The press and the liberals, he said, have so intimidated the people that they are afraid to speak out on racial questions for fear of being branded bigots and racists.

Goldwater 'Surprised' At Wallace Withdrawal

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater expressed surprise at Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's decision to drop out of the presidential race Sunday.

The Arizona senator also announced he expected former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to campaign for him this year.

Goldwater, in a formal statement through his press secretary, said, "The governor's action was a surprise to me. I have no further comment at this time."

Goldwater later was stopped by newsmen as he entered a Phoenix professional photographic shop to sit for a formal portrait.

He was asked for additional comment on the Wallace action. Goldwater answered, "I have no comment now."

He was reminded that at an appearance before the Florida caucus at the GOP National Convention in San Francisco he had suggested that Wallace withdraw. Asked if he was happy over the Alabama governor's decision, Goldwater again answered, "I have no comment at this time."

Drive, Drive

The GOP candidate drove himself to the photographer's studio, about 10 miles from Goldwater's hilltop home.

Concerning Eisenhower, Goldwater said, "He told me he would talk about the presidential campaign when he got back from the Bohemian Gardens."

The Gardens is an exclusive resort near Redwood, Calif.

The senator said Eisenhower was to inform him on how many campaign appearances "he could stand."

Once Goldwater headquarters receives this information, plus the dates that the former president would be available, Goldwater said, "we will then supply the locations."

The presidential candidate said he had hopes that Eisenhower can campaign for him with a "half-dozen to a dozen speeches."

Goldwater was asked if he thought he had a chance to carry the two big Eastern states of New York and Pennsylvania.

"I think I will do well in both states," he said. "I have always thought so."

The senator said he still planned to leave for Washington on Monday morning.

Vietnamese Students Hit French Pact

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese students damaged a French World War II monument in Saigon on Sunday in a boisterous commemoration of a "national day of shame"—the 10th anniversary of partition of Viet Nam.

An hour earlier, Premier Nguyen Khanh blamed the French for signing—on July 21, 1954—the Geneva agreement that divided the nation into Communist North and anti-Communist South and warned "we cannot remain indifferent" to demands from the South Vietnamese to march into Communist North Viet Nam.

Students who later attacked the bronze French war memorial loudly cheered Khanh at a rally in downtown Saigon attended by an estimated 40,000 people at its peak period.

Effigies of French President Charles de Gaulle holding hands with Communist North Viet Nam leader Ho Chi Minh hung over the crowd.

Russians Harrass U. S. Grain Shipper

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—The irate skipper of an American tanker described Sunday how Soviet sailors boarded his vessel in neutral waters and held it at gunpoint for five hours.

"We were treated like animals," he declared angrily.

Warning shots were fired over the tanker Sister Katingo outside the Black Sea port of Novorossiak after she had unloaded cargo of 32,000 tons of American grain for the Soviet Union.

Capt. Arthur H. Fertig, 44, of Wading River, N.Y., said the incident took place last Wednesday when he refused to pay what he deemed an excessive charge for unloading the cargo. Fertig said the choice of payment procedure has been guaranteed by a Soviet-American agreement.

Chief Officer Daniel Jamieson of New York City added: "We called their bluff and we won. But there is no man in this crew of 50 who would want to return to Russia after this."

Fertig and Jamieson insisted that they saw the American wheat delivered by them being loaded on a Soviet ship for transport to Cuba.

Sheppard And Wife To Move To Ohio

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard and the German divorcee he married Saturday in a swift, simple ceremony rested in Chicago on Sunday preparatory to leaving for Cleveland, where 10 years ago he was convicted of slaying his first wife.

The new Mrs. Sheppard told The Associated Press by telephone that she and her husband "would take it easy" Sunday and leave early Monday for Ohio.

"We want to take in a movie later today and then have dinner some place by ourselves," Mrs. Sheppard said. "Then Dr. Sam has some things that he wants to do downtown. We slept late this morning. We're pleased that stories and pictures of our wedding yesterday were sent to Europe."

Sheppard, 40, was married in a bridal suit of the Conrad Hilton Hotel to the former Ariane Tebbenjohanns, 35, a statuesque, silver blonde, who won his love while he was serving a prison term in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Simple Ceremony

The ceremony was performed by Nicholas Kure, a magistrate of the Circuit Court of Cook County.

Sheppard, an osteophatic physician, and his bride will go to the former Mrs. Tebbenjohanns' home in Rocky River, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland. Sheppard's attorney F. Lee Bailey of Boston, and Mrs. Bailey, who were best man and matron of honor at the wedding ceremony, checked out of the hotel Sunday.

Dr. Sheppard was released from the penitentiary Thursday on a federal writ of habeas corpus after serving nearly nine years on a conviction of second-degree murder.

He was freed on the order of U.S. Dist. Judg Carl Weinman of Dayton, who said Sheppard had been deprived of due process of law at his trial. He is free on $10,000 bail.

The next legal action in Sheppard's case will come Wednesday at a site to be determined Monday. A three-judge federal appeal court panel decides whether to let Sheppard remain at liberty on bond while the state of Ohio appeals the order that freed him.

GOP Ponders Request For Redistricting

HARRISBURG (AP)—There's talk going around that state Republican leaders want to hold another special legislative session this year to reapportion the already reapportioned General Assembly.

At this point, the effort apparently remained simply in the talking stage.

The word began to circulate Saturday in a report out of San Francisco, site of the GOP National Convention, that GOP leaders are prepared to ask Gov. Scranton to call a second reapportionment session this year.

Reportedly, the leaders are fearful that Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential candidacy will have a detrimental effect on GOP legislative candidates in the November election, possibly giving Democrats control of the Assembly.

Scranton, who arrived back in Pennsylvania Saturday, declined to comment on the report, published in the Philadelphia Bulletin until he returned to his desk after a two-week vacation.

Sen. Majority Leader James S. Berger said he had "no information whatsoever" on the move.

Harlem Riots Erupt Over Shooting Of Negro Youth

NEW YORK (AP)—New rioting broke out in Harlem on Sunday night as Negroes held funeral services for a youth whose death Thursday by police bullets set off bloody disorders Saturday night.

Police fired volleys of pistol shots into the air in answer to a rain of bottles from rooftops a block away from the funeral home.

A few minutes earlier police had sealed off a 57-block area in the center of Harlem, promising to reopen the streets after the funeral.

Demonstrations Saturday night protesting the death of James Powell, 15, grew into riots lasting until dawn, leaving one Negro dead and scores injured, including a dozen policemen.

Sunday night, a crowd of 500 milling outside the funeral home scattered in all directions as the police shots rang out. A patrolman was hit on the arm with a soda bottle, but was not injured.

A few minutes earlier, police had broken up a gang of 10 young Negroes who were marching toward the funeral home, many of them carrying heavy sticks. They fled after hitting a Negro police sergeant with a bottle.

The new violence on another hot, steamy night followed a meeting attended by 200 Negroes in a Harlem church, where appeals for nonviolence were booed and a suggestion that they take guns and start shooting was cheered.

The rally broke up without incident.

Negroes rioted against police in Harlem on Saturday night, leaving one Negro dead and scores injured, including a dozen patrolmen. Police gunfire answered a hail of missiles thrown from rooftops.

The battle, confined to a small area in the Negro ghetto, was touched off by demonstrations protesting the fatal shooting of a Negro schoolboy by a white policeman Thursday.

Steel-helmeted police at one point had to call for more ammunition from their rife range.

Fighting started at about 9:30 p.m. and by dawn had ceased, but reporters cruising the area saw Negroes looting stores through smashed windows.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy issued an appeal to be read at morning services in Harlem churches, calling for "calm, lawful action."

Murphy said the shooting of the Negro boy had been as "an excuse for looting and for vicious, unprovoked attacks against police."

Crimes Combatted

"These crimes," he said, "have been met by swift and necessary police action. In our estimation this is a crime problem and not a social problem."

At one point in the riot, Negroes changed "Murphy the murderer" as they marched toward a police station. The Negro who was killed was identified through fingerprints as Jay Jenkins, an ex-convict with a record of 10 arrests, police said. He was shot through the forehead while standing on the roof of a four-story building, hurling bricks at passing motorists and pedestrians, Murphy said. The commissioner said he was warned, but refused to stop throwing bricks.

Scranton Home: Plans Vacation

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) —Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, back home after his unsuccessful bid for the Republican presidential nomination, quietly observed his 47th birthday Sunday at his Marworth estate.

The governor's wife, Mary, said nothing special or formal was planned for the birthday observance.

Most of Scranton's staff has been given a vacation after the gruelling five-week campaign which took the governor and his staff 30,000 miles to 32 cities in 26 states.

Will Vacation

Scranton, his wife, and their four children plan to leave Monday for a two-week vacation at Little Moose Lodge in the Adirondack Mountains in New York state.

Mrs. Scranton said the governor, however, planned first to go to Harrisburg either Sunday night or Monday morning.

Scranton and his family flew to their Estate Marworth Saturday from Philadelphia. They arrived at Philadelphia's International Airport at 4:50 p.m. after a four hour and 45 minute flight on a commercial airliner from San Francisco.

The governor appeared tired when he landed in Philadelphia.

During a brief news conference, he declined comment when he was asked whether he would campaign for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who defeated Scranton for the nomination.

Scranton was asked by a newsman for comment on a statement on extremeism made by Goldwater in his acceptance speech last Thursday night. Goldwater said: "I would remind you that extremeism in the defense of liberty is no vice."

In reply, Scranton said that if extremeists try to establish inequality, "we will have to oppose it."

"I rather gather that some of them (the extremeists) are," he added.

He did not further elaborate.

Asked whether he felt Goldwater's cause was a just cause, Scranton replied only: "Well, the Republican platform is certainly a just cause."

To coincide with Scranton's return to Pennsylvania, his Harrisburg office earlier in the day had issued a statement terming his bid for the nomination "The good fight for a just cause."

Scranton's statement added: "Politically we did not prevail in San Francisco. As a matter of principle, we were never beaten, because the principles for which we fought will live on so long as America is the nation we love.

"We fought for principles that are important articles of faith. We fought for the quality of all men, for rejection of political extremeists, for meaningful and positive conservatism, and for the strength and rationality of American foreign policy around the world."

Bomb Spy Satellite In Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.(AP) —The second of two sentry satellites maneuvered into station 65,000 miles above the earth Sunday to complete a space triple play aimed at perfecting a foolproof means of detecting secret high-altitude nuclear explosions.

A ground station at New Boston, N.H., flashed a radio signal Sunday to ignite a small motor aboard the satellite. The firing jockeyed the craft out of a great egg-shaped path ranging from 120 to 65,000 miles high and shifted it onto a more circular course where both the high and low point are about 65,000 miles.

A motor aboard a companion sentry satellite was fired Friday night to inject it into a similar high-flying orbit.

A third satellite launched on the same Atlas-Agena rocket which thundered away from Cape Kennedy on Friday continued in the original elliptical path as intended. It is a 4.5-pound "pygmy" package which is studying electrons in the Van Allen radiation belt.

The Air Force reported all three satellites were transmitting good radio signals to earth stations.

The twin 292-pound sentries are investigating techniques for establishing an operational network of six orbiting stations to detect if Russia or any other nation violates the partial nuclear test ban treaty by detonating a rocket-carried bomb deep in space.

Segregationist Shot In Georgia Scuffle

ATLANTA (AP) — A white man was critically wounded by the white owner of a restaurant during a disturbance and two members of a white family were struck by a shotgun blast reportedly fired by Negroes as racial violence erupted in Georgia's capital. The shootings were not related.

Police said Maurice Lawson, 22, was in critical condition after he was shot by Redell Crosby, a white restaurant owner. Lawson and five other whites attempted to chase Negroes from Crosby's integrated eating place Saturday night, police reported.

Crosby was charged with shooting and released on $1,000 bond.

Another Incident

In another incident in the same neighborhood, a white family said four Negroes in a passing car fired a shotgun blast at them. Pellets struck two members of the family, police said.

The attack on the family of Wylie Keith came about a week after a Washington, D.C., Negro educator, Lemuel Penn, was fatally shot by nightriding gunmen as he drove through rural northeast Georgia near Colbert, about 70 miles from here.

Both the Atlanta incidents Saturday night occurred in an area where white and Negro residential sections meet.

Det. Tony Quave said five white men were arrested for taking part in the disturbance which led to the shooting in the restaurant.

He said Lawson and the five told the Negroes, "you just have to go." Quave said the white men attacked two of the Negroes, punching one in the nose, before Crosby pulled a pistol.

Crosby ordered the white men to leave and all left except Lawson, who advanced on the restaurant owner with a beer bottle, Quave said.

Began Shooting

Crosby then began shooting, following Lawson outside. One of the five shots fired from the pistol struck Lawson in the abdomen, Quave reported.

The detective said Lawson would be charged with assault and battery. He said similar charges have been placed against Ronny Stoyles, 25; Jerry Wasden, 23; Tommy Key, 22 and Dean Ford, 20.

Govt. Pay Hike Seen Likely Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pay increases for more than 3.5-million civilian government workers and military personnel appeared likely Sunday as Congress prepared to push for adjournment before the Democratic convention.

A military pay bill was on top of the heap and gave the Senate a chance to get back to work Monday on a noncontroversial note after a week's layoff for the Republican nominating convention.

But controversy aplenty lay ahead before the hoped-for adjournment of Congress by the time the Democrats open their convention in Atlantic City, N.J., on Aug. 24.

A battle looms over President Johnson's $962.5-million antipoverty bill. Republicans can be expected to wage strong fights against the bill in both House and Senate.

Razor Charge Faces Courtman

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Walter Lee Sampson, 24, center on the LaSalle college basketball team for the past three years, faced a charge of carrying a concealed, deadly weapon after police said they found him with a straight razor.

Sampson, who was released in $300 bail Saturday by Magistrate Harry Ellick, was arrested Friday night on the parking lot of a diner. Two policemen testified they saw Sampson go toward another parked car with a shiny object in his hand. They said they thought a fight was in the making and moved toward the car. They said Sampson then put a razor in his pocket.

Sampson told the magistrate Saturday that he bought the razor to trim his mustache. He added that he was only "fooling around" with a friend in the other car.

Midget Racer, 27, Killed

HATFIELD, Pa. (AP)—George Gancarz, 27, of Bristol, Pa., was killed in the third auto racing fatality in Pennsylvania in three weeks Saturday night at the Hatfield Speedway.

The car Gancarz was driving ran over the wheel of another driven by Dutch Schaefer, of Floral Park, Long Island, N.Y., jumped the guard rail and rolled over several times. Schaefer's car crashed into the railing, but he escaped injury.

The race was halted after the accident. Red Riegel, of Leesport, Pa., was declared the winner, with Len Duncan of Philadelphia second and King Carpenter of Thompsonville, Conn., third.

Gancarz, a bachelor, was a veteran midget driver and worked at the Morrisville, Pa., airport as a flying instructor.

A week ago, Harvey Marsh, 24, of Morgantown, Pa., was killed at Grandview Speedway near Boyertown.

Youth Admits Shaking Tot

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) —Lewis Gallmore, 16, admitted during a lie detector test that he had grabbed his 19-month-old stepbrother, Tyree, by the throat and shaken him to make him stop crying, Washington County Dist. Atty. Harold Fergus said yesterday.

Lewis Gallmore had told police that he found his stepbrother floating in a bathtub in about eight inches of water Wednesday. He had been looking after the child while their parents were out.

An autopsy showed, however, that Tyree had died of strangulation. Lewis was taken into custody Thursday, but police said he told them then that he had only shaken the child a little.

Lewis is being held for a hearing Saturday.

Probe To Focus On Brutality

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An independent commission named by Gov. Scranton to study a situation in Chester involving civil rights demonstrations has decided to primarily focus its investigation on charges of police brutality.

Thomas W. Pomeroy Jr., head of the five-man commission, said after a four-hour meeting here that the commission hoped to "try and reconcile reports and resolve discrepancies" between the findings made by state and local police investigations and those issued by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Police investigators absolved police of brutality during the demonstrations over alleged de-facto segregation in Chester's public schools last spring. The ACLU reached the opposite conclusion.

Patriotism Love Of One's Country, Legion Head Says

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The new commander of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion says his conception of patriotism is "loving one's country, respecting its traditions and loving its people."

Monroe R. Bethman, 47-year-old Doylestown businessman who was elected and installed Saturday as the Legionnaires wound up their four-day state convention here, said true patriotism is "faith, hope and charity." He explained:

"Faith in the nation's principles, hope in the future and charity toward all, malice toward none."

Accepted

Bethman, who succeeded Regis Cusick of Pittsburgh, was escorted to the rostrum by Bracken Cadets, of Bristol Post 382, whose performance won second place in the junior corps Class D drum and bugle competition.

The Philadelphia Inquirer was named recipient of the American Legion employer community service award for 1964.

The finale of the four-day convention was the annual parade in which 8,000 marchers participated. Some 50 bands, drum and bugle corps, drill teams and 15 district marching units covered the parade route through center city.

Troop 60 Scouts At Jamboree

VALLEY FORGE — Boy Scouts of Troop 60, Delaware Valley Area Council, packed a lot of excitement into their first day at the Sixth National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge State Park.

They left Easton Thursday morning and arrived at the Jamborre at 10:45 a.m. Each scout underwent a medical checkup upon arrival, after which came a much needed lunch. After lunch the scouts set up camp, with each patrol of eight boys in a different colored tent.

Once the camp was ready, the scouts had a meal of sausages, baked beans, bread, milk and oranges. Supper was followed by a sectional campfire at 8:30 p.m. after which the tired but happy scouts climbed into their sleeping bags.

Mother Able To Climb Via Heart Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 40-year-old Danielsville, Northampton County, mother of three counts among her blessings the ability to climb flights of stairs.

"I walk up because it feels so good to walk again," said Mrs. Stanley Clark, who walked out of Lankenau Hospital Saturday —30 days after a rare operation in which surgeons installed two artificial heart valves.

Last month doctors fought for her life. Now, they believe she will lead a normal life.

Her operation climaxed a 10-month progression of heart failures. First it was palpitation; then, pain and weakness.

Doctors at St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem, and Lankenau said Mrs. Clark had rheumatic fever 22 years ago, damaging two heart valves. Through heart valves are commonly replaced these days, only rarely are two replaced at once.

Metal And Plastic

The metal-and-plastic valves were installed in a five-hour operation during which the heart was at rest, substituted by a heart - lung machine. Mrs. Clark's heart was jolted back into rhythmic beats again by an electric shock device. Immediately her heart worked better.

Recently she was assigned to the ambulatory unit at the Lankenau Hospital. Her cafeteria was two floors above her room. She elected to walk the two flights, with the doctor's blessing.

"I'll never complain about household chores again," said Mrs. Clark.

Cash, Goods Reported Stolen

STROUDSBURG — A number of items and an undetermined amount of cash was reported stolen from the concessions stand at the rear of the Morey Elementary School in Stroudsburg Saturday at 8 a.m.

Police said thieves entered the stand by prying the lower half of a two - section door open with a heavy bar.

Keystone Soldier Kills One, Wounds 2

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Cpl. Vernon McRoy, 26, of Levittown, Pa., has been identified by the Army as the berserk soldier who killed an Army sergeant and wounded three other soldiers in the 7th U.S. Infantry Division area last Thursday.

McRoy, husband of Mrs. Catherine McRoy, himself died of a shot fired by one of the wounded, identified by the Army as Pfc. Gerald Warren, Jr. 22, of Hollywood, Fla.

Killed by McRoy with a M14 rifle he had stolen from a guardhouse was Sgt. 1C Gilbert Schnitski, 31, of Mazie, Okla. Wounded were two military policement, S. Sgt. Robert K. Belton, 36, of the Bronx, N.Y., and Pfc Jack E. Moore, 24, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Warren.

An Army spokesman said Belton, shot in the chest, is in serious condition but was expected to recover; Moore, shot in the leg, is in fair condition, and Warren's condition is good.

The Army said McRoy fired on Schnitski and the two MP's near a gymnasium in the division headquarters compound to investigate a report that an armed man acting strangely had been sighted in the area.

McRoy fled along a fence into darkness when Warren, the sentry challenged. McRoy fired on Warren, wounding him in the arm. As he fell, Warren managed to fire his .45 pistol.

McRoy's body was found nearby in a search at dawn the next day. The Army said McRoy had be npicked up by MP's earlier Thursady night and returned to his unit.

23 Cars Derail, Block Tracks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Twenty-three cars of a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad freight train derailed Sunday near McKeesport, blocking the B&O's main east - west tracks.

No injuries were reported.

A railroad spokesman said the derailed cars "were stacked up pretty good," meaning several of the cars were hurled together. A considerable amount of track was ripped up.

The 40-car freight, pulled by three diesel units, was on the railroad's "New Yorker" run which generally travels faster than most freights. It was bound for New York from Chicago.

The cause of the derailment was not learned immediately. Trains were routed around the derailment.

The railroad said the derailed cars were in the middle of the train. Most were carrying meat and general merchandise, the B&O said.

Water Gap Slates 1st Art Show

DELAWARE WATER GAP— The first annual Delaware Water Gap outdoor art show featuring the works of local and area artists will be held Friday and Saturday, Aug. 14 and 15, near the "Eighth Scenic Wonder of the World."

Sponsored by the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce as part of the 75th anniversary program, the show will be held on the site known as "the triangle" located on Main St. between Waring's Workshop and the Deer Head Inn — the jazz center of the area.

The Chamber of Commerce is being assisted by the Pocono Mountains Art Group in setting up the program for the two day outdoor show. Plans are being formulated to make this exhibition one of the more outstanding shows of the area.

The exhibits will be arranged so that passing motorists will be attracted by the various exhibits of the artists. In the event of bad weather, the large covered patio of the Deer Head Inn will be used to house the exhibits.

Present plans are to set aside a special section for the young artists of the village and the surrounding area to display their paintings at the exhibit. Several of the participating artists will be requested to act as judges for the young artists and ribbons will be awarded by the Chamber of Commerce. All of the youngsters will be asked to exhibit their work at this show.

Local Talent Sought

The Water Gap Chamber is hopeful that the outdoor show will be helpful in bringing out the local talent of the local citizens. Artists within the surrounding area are being invited to participate in this exhibition which is expected to draw an excellent crowd from the surrounding resorts.

The Water Gap Chamber of Commerce believes that this outdoor art Exhibition will be expanded and will provide a new and exciting exhibit area for the many local and visiting artists. This show is also expected to dd to the cultural features of the famous Delaware Water Gap which already houses Waring's Workshop and is known far and wide as the "home of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians." It is also noted as the jazz center of the area.

Applications for the outdoor art show may be sent to the secretary, Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce, Delaware Water Gap, Pa. All artists intending to participate should register early.

Floods Hit Japan Mainland

BALTIMORE (AP) Negotiators have reached agreement on a contract to end Maryland's three-month-old dispute between operators of 225 supermarkets and their retail clerks.

Harry J. Cimbolo, president of Local 692, AFL-CIO Retail Clerks International Association, said he would recommend ratification of the agreement by the union membership.

Union and company sources withheld details of the settlement pending submission to the union members.

The union has been negotiating since January with representatives of Acme, A&P, Giant, Food Fair, Penn Fruit, Grand Union and Safeway Stores.

The union struck Acme April 17, and the other chains, which belong to the same employers association, closed their stores in a united-front move.

All seven reopened their stores June 24, but pickets continued patrolling at Acme stores.

Goldwater Extremism

Senator Barry Goldwater and his convention managers succeeded in squashing an attempt by his opponents to embarrass him with a platform plank condemning extremist groups like the John Birch Society, Ku Klux Klan and the Communist party.

In March Goldwater defended the John Birch Society when he said, "They believe in the Constitution, they believe in God, they believe in freedom."

Extremists should certainly be given the same freedom of speech guaranteed by the Constitution to all Americans. And Goldwater had a pretty good argument against condemning only one or two extremist groups in a party platform.

But there is no good reason why Goldwater should not disassociate himself from all the ultra-right-wing madmen attracted to his militant conservative banner.

He refused to do so at the Republican convention. He defeated the platform amendment against extremists.

But no one expected him to come out with an endorsement of extremists in his acceptance speech. And yet that is what he did, in ambiguous language, but with unmistakable fervor.

Goldwater delivered this passage of his speech, underlined in his text and printed copies, with special emphasis to a cheering convention:

"I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice! And let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue!"

That is exactly what he said. Exactly what he meant is still not clear.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York reacted with shock and amazement and this strong rebuke:

"To extoll extremism whether in defense of liberty or in pursuit of justice is dangerous, irresponsible and frightening . . .

"The extremism of the Communists, of the Ku Klux Klan and of the John Birch Society—like that of most tyrants—has always been claimed by such groups to be in defense of liberty."

Eisenhower was reported upset by the statement and anxious for an explanation of its meaning.

Goldwater then repeated his statement, defended it, and asked Rockefeller for his definition of "extremism" in writing. "Extremism is no sin if you are engaged in the defense of freedom," he said, citing the military actions of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Teddy Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower in defense of American liberty.

The problem of what Goldwater meant by his cryptic statement is answered partly by the rhetoric of the convention battles.

He knew the phrase had been attached to many of his supporters by his critics, whose efforts to condemn extremists were clearly aimed at condemning him.

He defeated the "moderates" who wanted to condemn "extremists." He then rubbed salt in their wounds by hurling this endorsement of extremism at them.

Taken by itself alone, the statement is wrong. Extremism in the defense of anything is a vice. The good end of liberty does not justify any bad means of winning it.

And moderation in the pursuit of justice is the heart of the American Constitution's guarantees of fair trial by jury, safety from arbitrary arrest and imprisonment, and our whole legal process.

Taken in the context of the bitter Republican convention fight over extremists, the Goldwater statement is a clear endorsement of extremists who support Goldwater and a slap in the face of moderates who oppose him.

It is impossible for Goldwater to argue that all extremism means is fighting hard for liberty and justice.

It means fighting too hard. It means "excessive." Goldwater cannot change its meaning, unless he is prepared to change the English language.

Comment Of The Day

"Senator Barry Goldwater and his loyal supporters won the nomination. They enthusiastically ask for our support. They will get it."

—Republican state committee of Pennsylvania.

Walter Lippmann

New Conservatives

By Walter Lippmann

LOS ANGELES — It is quite true, as William S. White has pointed out, that we are witnessing "a violent and fundamental power showdown between the inside and outside factions of the Republican Party."

The inside faction, which consists of all the top Republican leaders in both houses of Congress, is solidly behind Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The outside faction, which includes governors like Scranton, Rockefeller and Romney, is outside the inner Republican congressional hierarchy.

These Republican insiders were defeated in 1952 when their candidate, Sen. Robert Taft, was beaten by the outsiders who used Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as their instrument.

This analysis, good as it is, does not explain why Barry Goldwater, the 1964 instrument of the conservatives, is so radically different in great matters from Senator Taft.

In 1952, "Mr. Republican" was still deeply opposed to foreign entanglement, unwilling to engage in military adventures abroad and most reluctant to be drawn into intervention outside of the Western Hemisphere.

His conservative successor in 1964 has sounded the trumpet for a global crusade to be carried on by wide-ranging military intervention, possibly nuclear.

How is it that the Republican conservatives who are taking control of the national political organization seem to have changed so radically in these 12 years? I think of Sen. Everett Dirksen who, still wearing the laurels he earned by making possible the civil rights act, is going to nominate Senator Goldwater.

I do not think that Senator Dirksen has any lust for a global crusade or that it worries him very much that Senator Goldwater has said that the civil rights act is unworkable and can be enforced only by a police state.

I do not think Senator Dirksen has changed. Presumably he believes that Senator Goldwater says and that when and if Senator Goldwater is defeated the control of the party will be left with the Republican congressional hierarchy of which he, Senator Dirksen, is the leading member.

With the platform, which is unalloyed Goldwater, before us, one thing is certain. Barry Goldwater is offering the voters a choice between himself and Lyndon Johnson, and nobody will be able to say that it is another case of Tweedle - Dum and Tweedle-Dee.

The fundamental difference between the two men is not what it would be if Dirksen were opposing Johnson, whether it is better to do A or B about this or that.

The difference between Goldwater and Johnson is one of temperament and character — the difference between a passion to divide and dominate a passion to pacify and harmonize.

A prime example of the difference is in the field of civil rights. Senator Goldwater's stance, when the bill was still before the Senate and now in the platform, is, if not calculated to do so, most surely bound to offer the Republican Party as a haven for refuge and support for non-observance and passive resistance. This is a national calamity, that this grave matter of civil rights is not to be raised above the party conflict and that Senator Dirksen has to give way to Barry Goldwater.

And to what end? In order that Senator Goldwater, running for President, may be able to attract the segregationists who look to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. That is what I mean by saying that Senator Goldwater has a passion to divide and to dominate.

And if, by some chance, Senator Goldwater were elected President, we should find that what he stands for in foreign affairs would cause nothing less than a convulsion in our foreign relations.

His platform talks about strengthening NATO and our other alliances and about our moral leadership in the world against all forms of communism. But as surely as night follows day, the election of Barry Goldwater would shatter our whole system of alliances, and it would set rolling in all the continents enormous waves of anti - Americanism and of neutralism. For none of our allies in Europe or in Latin America or in Asia, except perhaps Chiang Kai-Shek, would join us in a global, nuclear, anti - Communist crusade.

Far from following the United States in such a lunatic adventure, the paramount concern of our allies would be how to contain the United States until it had recovered its sanity.

'It's So Easy When You Know How'

The Pennsylvania Story

Scranton, A Liability

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — It is becoming patently clear in the after-math of last week's abortive Republican National Convention that Pennsylvani's Governor William Warren Scranton may well become one of the worst liabilities Republicans could muster this fall.

For the blood-and-thunder, chronically apologetic, dyed-in-the-wool Republican stalwart who insists wrong is right regardless of what a candidate may do or say, the "liability" prospect of course is viewed as preposterous, absurd and impossible.

Is it — from the practical "non-ardent" standpoint?

The record — and the reactions — speak quite the opposite.

Mr. Scranton's political demise — it can be called little other than that — derives not from the fact that he lost his presidential nomination bid.

It derives not from the fact that he still held the Pennsylvania delegation committed to himself at the very critical moment in the state-by-state roll call when the Pennsylvania vote could have been "the" decisive vote to nail down the Goldwater nomination.

It derives not from the fact that Mr. Scranton waged a strong, determined, and it might be said, somewhat heroic fight, against obviously insurmountable odds.

None of these facets can genuinely be denied to be attributes of a sterling, fighting character — in this case, a la Scranton.

These are not the points at issue that will throttle Republicans this fall in Pennsylvania — and perhaps in great degree throughout the nation — the more the Scranton name enters the campaign picture.

What is at issue though — and this holds the key to the entire Scranton picture henceforth — is the lashing downgrading and can't-wim-ism by a (onetime) ranking Republican of the very GOPersonage who now has emeerged as the party presidential standard-bearer!

If GOP presidential nominee Goldwater has been classified by one of his own ranking fellow Republicans as (literally) unfit to hold the office, what more is there for opposing Democrats to say!

Illinois Senator Everett Dirksen, thin-twigged veteran of the old pro school, allowed soothingly during the convention that the Scranton twittings of Mr. Goldwater "would soon be forgotten."

Unfortunately for Mr. Scranton — and in this case Republicans generally and in Pennsylvania in particular — Democrats this year have no intention of letting anyone "forget" about the "twittings."

Ordinarily what party protangonists have to say against opposition party candidates usually is written off as just so much campaign froth, polher and fluff.

The difficulty in the Scranton lambast case however is: how do you get around direct quotes!

Democratic strategy this fall: the more Mr. Scranton campaigns (and Keystone State Democrats are hoping he goes at it vigorously!) the greater the opportunity to throw back at him his anti-Goldwater quotes.

Mr. Scranton most certainly has made himself a marked man — a man who went overboard the wrong way in a naive, amateurish switch from a campaign pattern that was amazingly successful, to the hashed, mundane mill of the political packrats.

The "cost" may be high, appallingly high for Republicans ere the fall election has come and gone — again, not only in Pennsylvania but throughout the nation.

It could not only cost Republicans the state insofar as the presidential is concerned, but also on the legislative, congressional and statewide office front. Mr. Scranton—very strategically — has made the campaign for the opposition!

Only Characters Different

The power - laden manuevers of the Goldwater machine at the Republican's National Convention in San Francisco last week reminded us of a similar situation on a smaller scale in Monroe County recently.

Barry, who worked four years for this opportunity, had the delegates locked up long before the convention got under way. For all intents and purpose it was a waste of time and money for Gov. William W. Scranton to make a bid for the nomination.

Scranton, who was in the race a little less than a month, was little more than a a favorite son of Pennsylvania — the same as Gov. Romney of Michigan, Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Gov. Rockefeller.

Not long ago Harold Kresge won re-election as Monroe County Republican chairman. Kresge entered the election on voting night with all the aces. He had control of the patronage, lined up a few proxy votes, and downed his opponent, Ben. K. Williams, despite a floor hassle.

Kresge, like Goldwater, had a long time to prepare for his ultimate triumph. Williams, on the other hand, was like Scranton and only entered the race three days before the chairmanship runoff.

No matter what level, a machine which picks up the loose parts over a long period will defeat a late starter, a la Scranton and Williams.

However, if the fellow out of the starting gate late can swing a "secret ballot" election his chances are better in the long run via the short haul.

Scranton pushed for a secret ballot at San Francisco. But the Goldwater forces were not buying this and killed the drive before it ever got started.

Ray Roberts, Williams' chief lieutenant at the Monroe GOP chairmanship election, sought the same secret vote method.

But he lost in the same ceremonial manner as the Keystone's governor.

Ironically the Scranton pitch on the coast backfired while Kresge and ardent William Warren backer fouled off the curve ball in Monroe

It all depends on who is waving the bat. If the grip is good for one swinger, it might prove unwieldly for another.

About Town

Gene Brown

After introducing Governor Dempsey at the World's Fair Saturday for the Connecticut Day ceremonies, I asked his wife to stand for which the Governor turned to me and remarked: "This puts you in solid in my home."

Dempsey had just returned from Washington and I asked him if President Johnson had anything to say about the Republican nominee. He said Johnson had but one comment: "No matter who runs I will work twice as hard."

After watching Dempsey five hours shaking hands, trotting around from exhibit to exhibit, signing hundreds of autographs, eating on the run and making countless speeches, I asked him where in the world does he get the stamina? (Mrs. B and I were dogtired at the end of 90 minutes). He replied ". . . don't get tired, I love it."

At a cocktail party (an euphemism for light snacks) the other night a prominent New York City banker of a conservative leaning had just returned from Chicago where he spent part of his time raising money for Governor Scranton. He said that among his colleagues, many of whom he had considered reasonable men, the sentiment for Senator Goldwater was fever - strong and he ascribed much of it to anti-civil rights. He was a bit sickened.

At another lunch on another day, five of us got to talking about peculiar attitudes of our wives but after we got through hearing about the other fellow's, no one wanted to trade. I terminated the philosophical discussion by relating that Mrs. B will cheerfully pay $200 for junk jewelry but will refrain in a restaurant from ordering iced tea because it is extra.

The Allen-Scott Report

Foes March

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Bayard Rustin, chief director of the spectacular 1963 civil rights March on Washington, is busy organizing another dramatic "demonstration" aimed at capturing nationwide attention.

Its purpose is to block the seating of the official delegations from Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City in late August.

They would be replaced by integrated delegations sponsored by a recently formed "Freedom Democratic Party."

Two key features of this backstage scheme are—a turbulent and widely televised battle on the convention floor to oust the Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi delegations and seat instead integrated groups from those states; simultaneous mass demonstrations both inside and outside the convention hall in support of this plan.

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, and leaders of CORE, are in the forefront in the organizing and financing of this explosive undertaking. They are working closely with Rustin.

Under their strategy, the ouster drive will be concentrated against the Mississippi delegation.

This would be the test case. If it gets anywhere, then similar challenges would be immediately raised against the Alabama and Louisiana delegations.

The Rustin - Reuther-CORE strategy also is definitely based on precipitating a stormy convention floor clash.

To bring that about, steps are under way to line up the support of at least 10 per cent of the 108 - member credentials committee to present a minority report demanding that the Mississippi delegation be rejected.

The ouster leaders know they have no chance of getting anywhere with their scheme in the credentials committee itself. Their only hope is getting a 10 per cent backed minority report on the ground that the regular Mississippi Democratic organization "systematically" excludes negroes and in 1960 repudiated both the party's platform and presidential slate.

If such a minority report can be maneuvered, the undercover plan then calls for eight Northern state delegations to formally request a roll call on ousting Mississippi.

Insiders claim seven state delegations already have been committed to support this move — California, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon, New York and Wisconsin.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy and California Governor Edmund Brown are being counted on to exert decisive influence at every stage in ouster strategy. It is reported they are being consulted and are "cooperating."

TURNING ON THE HEAT—While all this is going on in the convention, Rustin will be massing "huge" demonstrations inside and outside the immense Atlantic City hall — largest of its kind in the world.

It is his aim to bring more than 100,000 Negro and white demonstrators to the resort city.

For the inside demonstrations that would be certain of far-flung television coverage, he is seeking several thousand passes, though there is no indication they will be forthcoming from the Democratic National Committee. It is being hinted that if the committee balks, "Other measures may be resorted to." What they might be is shrugged off.

National Committee officials are known to be concerned about effectively controlling the vast convention hall. Counterfeit passes (an old story at political conventions) could enable large numbers of demonstrators to gain entrance to stage uproars at a given signal.

Reuther and A. Philllp Randolph, head of the Sleeping Car Porters and the official leader of the March on Washington, are endeavoring to muster the backing of the AFL-CIO Executive Council to oppose the seating of the three Southern delegations.

More than 250 convention delegates will be laborites, and their support is heavily counted on in the strategy planning.

Rustin, an admitted one - time organizer for the Young Communist League, served 28 months in federal prison for draft evasion in World War II. He was also convicted on a morals charge.

The so-called Freedom Democratic Party, formed in Jackson, Miss., last April by a group of civil rights organizations, has opened an office in Washington. Its representatives are contacting members of Congress to win support for the Southern delegation ouster plan.

Dear Abby

It's Her Job To Tell Him

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a girl who is engaged to somebody else. She had already accepted his ring when I met her, but she wasn't wearing it at the time.

Not until I had fallen deeply in love with her did she tell me about her engagement because she didn't want to lose me. She says I am the one she loves, but she can't bring herself to hurt her fiance by breaking off with him right now.

I can't see any point in waiting around. Last night she asked me if I would explain everything to her fiance and return the ring. I have never met the man, and I don't think I should.

My girl says he is a nice person and would do me no violence. I need some advice.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You are going to get more advice than you asked for. Your girl should break her own engagement. Furthermore, I hope you realize that you are "in love" with a person who accepted an engagement ring from one man, did not wear it, and encouraged another to fall in love with her. Doesn't this suggest something to you?

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old and I need to have a question answered. My mother has the world's best memory and is the world's biggest worrier. Can you tell me why?

CHRISTINA

DEAR CHRISTINA: Maybe she's the world's biggest worrier because she has the world's best memory.

DEAR ABBY: I have an only child who has just turned eight. She isn't spoiled, but she is used to being the center of attention.

I just learned that I am going to have another baby and I don't know how to break the news to her.

I have kind of hinted around, asking how she would like a baby sister or brother, and she says she doesn't want one. She is naturally quite a jealous child and becomes very upset when I hold her doll. Can you help me?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Quit "hinting around" and tell her the truth. More important—when the new baby arrives, don't shove your daughter in the background. Give her plenty of attention entirely alone. Jealousy is natural for all children under the circumstances, but it can be minimized with intelligent and thoughtful handling.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not seem very important to you, but it is very important to me. It's a growling stomach. Not mine, my girl's.

The last time I kissed her, we were interrupted by a low, rumbling growl. As a result we broke into laughter and nearly bit each other's lip off. If her stomach growled only occasionally, I wouldn't mind, but it happens quite often. And always during the most solemn moments. Can you recommend a cure? Otherwise, we will never get through the wedding ceremony with straight faces.

B. B.

DEAR B. B.: The only "cure" for a growing stomach is food. Feed her and you won't be hearing from her stomach.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Health Kit A Must For Campers

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

WHAT should a camper's first aid kit contain? What sort of emergencies should he be prepared for?

In this day of rapid communication and speed of travel, it seems somewhat pointless to start a happy family camping trip equipped to fix a fracture, operate on an appendix, and treat a heart attack.

Instead of investing in an array of pharmaceutical supplies in preparation for illness, prepare for health by getting a complete, routine phyical examination.

Regular medical checkups are a wise investment in good health, even if you only intend to "camp out in your own back yard."

Safety Features

For those rugged outdoor enthusiasts who choose to venture into the woods, booster immunizations against tetanus, typhoid and polio are excellent safety features for the "health kit."

Dental and eye examinations are also advisable before setting out to pitch camp, and the prudent fellow takes along an extra pair of eyeglasses may be thankful for his "foresight."

The actual "health box" which you carry with you should contain the following.

1) Sterile gauze pads.
2) Gauze bandages, adhesive tape and elastic bandages.
3) Safety pins.
4) Thermometer, eye droppers, scissors and tweezers.
5) Tannic acid jelly for minor burns.

Limit Drugs

Drugs and medications should be discriminately chosen to avoid overburdening the limits of the kit. Include certain basic medications like aspirin, calamine lotion, rubbing alcohol, paregoric for diarrhea, a mild laxative and medicine to combate motion sickness.

The kit should be a sturdy, compact, watertight container, clearly marked for easy recognition. Keep it always on hand for ready use, but always out of the reach of small children.

For Temporary Use

First aid kits and first aid itself are meant to be temporary expedients.

When major health problems arise it is best that too heroic measures be avoided. Patient waiting for professional help is often one of the most valued types of first aid.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Stories Behind Words

Philippic

Demosthenes, who lived from 385 B.C. until 322 B.C., was Greece's greatest orator.

Demosthenes gained his stature in oratory through great effort, for he had to overcome a speech impediment.

At the time when Demosthenes was at his peak, Philip of Macedon, the father of Alexander the Great, Wanted Macedonia admitted to the Greek councils. Demosthenes, recognizing that Philip's aim was to gain control of Greece, sought to arouse his countrymen. In a series of orations, Demosthenes denounced Philip in Harsh, violent terms. These orations were called "Philippics," the basis for the word "philippic," — any harsh verbal attack.

Thousands Crowd Pocono Parks, Pools To Cool Off

STROUDSBURG — Thousands flocked to Pocono state parks and recreation areas as the mercury hit 95 degrees yesterday afternoon. The weather bureau predicted relief today, however.

Frank Hochrine, park foreman at Gouldsboro and Tobyhanna State Parks said, "I never saw such a crowd; there's not even standing room on the beach at Tobyhanna. It looks like Coney Island down there."

He estimated that 700 were swimming at Gouldsboro and another 1,200 were on the beach. In addition, he said, there were about 1,000 picnickers.

At Tobyhanna, Hochrine continued, there were 600 in the water and 1,000 on the beach, with some 800 more in the picnic groves.

Sanford Shelton, superintendent at Promised Land State Park, gave unofficial estimates for the day of 4,000 picnickers and 3,500 to 4,000 swimming. He said attendance was "more than the Fourth of July." Shelton said the mercury stood at a "cool" 86 degrees at 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

Hickory Run State Park had about 2,000 at the beach, officials there estimated. Five hundred wishful thinkers attended the park's annual Christmas in July party.

Lewis R. Hastie, director of the East Stroudsburg pool and playground, reported about 355 used the pool yesterday. Attendance there was higher than usual, he said, although playground use was average. "Most of the people were in the pool to cool off," he explained.

The Stroudsburg pool and playground had around 3,000 people in attendance over the weekend. According to Samuel Wells III, director of the borough recreation facility, use was "way up, the biggest we have ever had for two days."

He said 1,400 used the big pool, 1,000 more splashed in the baby pool, and every picnic table was constantly full. There were four baseball games to add to the crowds, he added.

The weatherman said last night that scattered showers would herald the arrival of cooler air during the night. Today is expected to be cooler and no - where - near as humid, he said.

Joan Heid, Fireman's Wife, Has Baby Girl

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Joan Heid, the wife of a Marshalls Creek fireman injured in the June 26 truck explosion, gave birth to a bouncing, seven - pound, eight-ounce baby girl early yesterday morning in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

The 28-year-old mother, who also has three other young children, said her husband, Robert who is still in the hospital, was thrilled and pleased at the news.

"He is glad it is over though, because he was quite worried about me," said Mrs. Heid.

She said no name has been chosen for the black-haired, blue-eyed addition, but that she is leaning toward the name Christine. The other Heid children are Elizabeth, 6; Susan, 5, and Daniel, 4.

Mrs. Heid said her husband is holding up well after being hospitalized for 24 days. She said he will have some skin grafting done this week and faces more surgery before he is discharged. She said he expects to be discharged in about a month.

BARBARA COLE, star of "My Fair Lady" which opens tonight at Cherry Lane Playhouse for a two week run. Sam Carter will co-star in the hit musical comedy by Loerner and Loewe. Herb Surface, of the original Broadway cast, is directing the production.

State Pharmacists Meet At Tamiment

TAMIMENT — The 87th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Assn. started yesterday at Tamiment in the Poconos and will run through Wednesday.

Delegates to the four-day convention will take part in various workshop discussions and hear talks by professors from state pharmacy colleges.

The Montgomery Pharmaceutical Assn. is the host organization and has scheduled nightly entertainment for delegates and guests.

Last night Harold Waidelich, Stroudsburg pharmacist, gave the convention welcome address and told delegates that "millions of dollars worth of medicinal drugs, roots, barks and berries grow wild and for the most part remain untouched" in the Pocono Mountains.

Waidelich pictured the Poconos as a growing region. "Many industries will be attracted here because taxes will be lowered, believe it or not," he predicted.

West End Pharmacy

He told the pharmacists that included in the many business opportunities in the county is "a golden opportunity for a first-class pharmacy in the western end of Monroe County . . ."

"The thousands who come here will begin to share the taxation and, therefore, the cost of local government will be divided that many times, with the net result a tax deduction for all.

"My statement is substantiated by the fact that one of the rapidly growing townships in the West End of the county has reduced its taxes during the past year and only because of good management and its recent growth," Waidelich said.

The local pharmacists said the region will grow because of new major highways and the proposed Tocks Island Dam.

Waidelich predicted these factors will provide "work and prosperity for thousands in the near future.

Waidelich belongs to the 50-member Carbon - Monroe - Pike Pharmaceutical Assn., a member of the state organization.

Dr. Joseph B. Sprowls, dean of Temple University's School of Pharmacy, gave the convention's keystone address.

The program will end with the installation of new officers and a speech by Rebakah Shaeffer, a nationally known lecturer.

Special reports will also be given on the Pennsylvania Board of Pharmacy, the Drug, Device and Cosmetic Act and drug markets.

Tuesday "The Proper Distribution of Drugs" will be the topic of panel discussion, headed by Ronald M. Katzman, the association's consul.

Resolutions and nomination of officers will be presented at Wednesday's closing session, along with a report from the association's legislative contact man.

9-Year-Old Cyclist Fractures Collarbone

Police Investigate 7 Mishaps Over Weekend

STROUDSBURG — Police investigated eight accidents in the Pocono Mountain region over the weekend, including a car-bicycle collision that resulted in a fractured collarbone for a nine-year-old Tannersville girl.

Cook Or Chef Careers Give Food For Thought

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

"WHAT advice do you have for my son who wants a hotel or restaurant career in food preparation or food management?" writes a Connecticut reader.

"What training will he have to have? And what are the opportunities?"

"Right now the opportunities are tremendous," answered Douglas F. Pierce, personal director of Lowe's Hotels to whom we passed on these questions.

As personnel director of a firm operating six major hotels in New York City, Pierce is in a position to answer, too. Recently, for example, he supervised the employment of the staffs for the modern Americana, the tallest hotel in the world. Previous to his present job he was personnel director of the Waldorf-Astoria. Prior to that he was personnel manager of New York Statler.

"In the food preparation side of the business — to take one side at a time," Pierce said, "there's a greater demand for cooks and chefs of a high level than there is a supply.

"In our case, for example, we're always looking for good kitchen supervisors, chefs, cooks and people to work under chefs and cooks. As a matter of fact, just in the Americana alone we use 200 cooks a day in our various shifts.

How It Used To Be

"It used to be that in this business most of the finest chefs, came from abroad," Pierce went on. "But now we are looking for prospective chefs to develop in this country, too."

Future Chefs and Cooks Often Begin As Busboys, Waitresses.

Instead of just "looking," the Americana has launched two training programs.

The first is a two-year project, which has the sanction of New York State, for high school graduates who have shown an aptitude and interest for food service. Usually the interest has been shown by their summer jobs or possible attendance at food arts high schools. Personal interviews and written aptitude tests are also given.

After acceptance, the apprentices get instruction while they work as helpers at all stations in the kitchen. Then, after the training period, they're prepared for future jobs at almost any kitchen station.

The second program, now under way is for people already working in the Americana's kitchen. Interestingly enough, this program is New York's first-local application of On-The-Job training under the President's Manpower Development and Taining Act. Under it, a relief fry cook, pastry cook, oven watcher, cold meat man, kitchen man and poultry man (and two of these boys are college-trained are working to prepare for better jobs.

"There are all sorts of jobs available from dishwashers to managers in the food side of the hotel business," Pierce said "and youngsters who want to prepare for this work can start training while still in their teens with part-time and summer jobs as kitchen helpers, dish-washers, busboys, waiters, and waitresses.

"But an important thing to remember in getting these jobs," Pierce said, "is to try to get them in established places. For example, look for work in the best diner, the best coffee shop, or the best summer hotel. In this way experience from the past has more status for the future."

(In a subsequent column, we will discuss the food management side of careers in the hotel or restaurant business.)

Takes More Soda Pop To Slake Area Thirst

(Special to The Record)

NEW YORK — The bubble, sparkle and fizz business is in high gear in Monroe County.

The latest figures on soft drink consumption in the county show that local residents are drinking such beverages at the rate of 145 eight-ounce bottles per year.

As for the local population as a whole, it downed no less than 6,032,000 bottles last year, as against 5,056,000 in 1960, when similar data was released. This is exclusive of bulk drinks served at fountains.

The rise in the three-year period amounted to 19 per cent. It was a bigger gain than was recorded in most parts of the Middle Atlantic States, 18 per cent, or in the State of Pennsylvania, 16 per cent.

Different Regions

The data was derived from reports issued by the Department of Commerce and by the soft drink industry. They show the relative rate of consumption nationally and on a state-by state basis.

Different areas of the country vary greatly, it appears, in their addiction to soda pop. People in the Southern states, due to their warmer year-round climate, use more than do those in other sections. By comparison, only half as much is consumed per person in the Western states.

Flavor preferences are also very marked. In the East, for example, cola drinks represent 40 per cent of the market as compared with 70 per cent in the Southeast and South-Central states. The remainder is divided among the various fruit pops, club soda and the like.

The size of the soft drink industry in Monroe County is to be seen in the dollar figures. They show that local residents spent some $670,000 for bottled drinks last year, compared with $480,000 in 1960. Part of the rise was due to higher prices.

Up In Nation

Nationally, also, there has been a big increase. During the past year, reports the industry, the American public consumed more than 40 billion bottles of soda and paid over $4 billion for them.

The figures show that the biggest users of soft drinks are the teen-agers. Below that age level, milk is the chief beverage. Afterward, for those in their 20's and over, beer takes over as the most popular drink.

State Craftsmen's Fair Set For ESSC Aug. 12-15

EAST STROUDSBURG — The 17th annual fair and exhibition of The Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen will be held at East Stroudsburg State College, Wednesday, Aug. 12 through Friday, Aug. 14, from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Saturday, Aug. 15, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. This was announced yesterday by the Travel Development Bureau of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce.

The juried exhibition will be selected and the prizes awarded by Jean Delius of Rochester, New York, Donald Wener, Curator of Decorative Arts at the Scranton Museum and Dr. Kenneth Matthews of The University of Pennsylvania Museum.

In addition to the juried exhibition there will be thousands of items in all categories of crafts to be viewed and purchased. All work must meet the high standards of design and workmanship required by the Guild.

Craft Seminars will be presented each morning except Saturday. The subjects of the lecture-demonstrations and the authoriative craftsmen giving them are:

1. "Making of Marbleized Paper," by Palmer Sharpless, Newton.

2. "Contemporary Embroidery" by Everett K. Sturgeon, Pittsburgh.

3. "The Art of Glass Blowing" by Francis D. Whittimore, Jr., Lansdale.

The lecture demonstrations are free to members of the Guild and open to visitors for a small fee.

Other features of the fair are wood turning, wheel thrown pottery, weaving, spinning, rug hooking, lace-making and silk screening of greeting cards.

A special event planned for Saturday afternoon will be a fashion show with the models wearing apparel and accessories of hand-woven and hand-printed fabric.

The Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen is a non-profit organization with state-wide membership in 14 chapters. It's annual fair is designed to promote an appreciation of fine crafts, to bring public attention to the knowledge and skill required to produce it, and to afford broader recognition of the state's outstanding craftsmen.

Dairy Cattle Theme At Wayne Fair

HONESDALE — Each summer the Wayne County Fair turns the spotlight on prize-winning purebred dairy cattle from Northeastern Pennsylvania farms.

The practice, started at the 1870 fair, is credited with playing a major role in development of the region's 50 million dollar a year dairy products industry.

Daniel M. Eno of Bethany, in a history of the fair published in connection with the 1962 centennial, recalls the beginning of the purebred dairy shows.

"In 1870," Mr. Eno wrote, "the premium list for cattle was enlarged to include classes for Alderneys and Ayshires, the first dairy breeds to be recognized."

The Alderney, he noted, was the forerunner of both the Guernsey and Jersey breeds and no longer exists as a separate breed, at least in this country.

It was two years—1872—before the first Alderney was entered in competition. The animal was owned by D. M. Kimble.

The following year, W. A. Gaylord of Clinton Township, a former Wayne County prothonotary, entered the first Ayshire.

In 1878, the Eno narative continues, Frank Hollenback entered the first Jersey animal to be shown. Three years later, Stephen Pulis entered the initial Holstein.

By 1883, there were two Holstein entries and a full herd of Ayshires. The Ayshire animals were entered by Willis W. Hopkins of Aldenville, the first dairymen to have an all purebred dairy herd in Wayne County.

First Extensive Display

It was not until 1922 that the first extensive display of Guernsey cattle was entered. The animals were owned by Judson Bates.

Through the years, the fair has become the place where regional farmers proudly displayed the best cattle in their herds. This year will be no exception.

Four dairy shows are scheduled during the 102nd fair which opens Aug. 9. On Tuesday, August 11, the Future Farmers of America and 4-H Clubs will conduct their livestock expositions. The annual Wayne County Artificial Breeding Co-op Show is set for Wednesday, Aug. 12, and the big Wayne County Fair show will be held on Thursday, Aug. 13. Closing out the dairy attractions will be a FFA and 4-H dairy judging contest on Friday, Aug. 14.

There's A Reason

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — City Building Commissioner Harold Christian, who has been carrying a pair of binoculars around recently, hastens to declare that he is neither a bird watcher nor a girl watcher.

"I use the binoculars to examine masonry work on three and four-story buildings where we have received complaints of possible danger," he explains. "They save a lot of climbing and they aid in spotting deteriorated mortar work."

Smith Named Instructor

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Roger J. Smith, of Saylorsburg RD 1, has been appointed a certified hunter safety instructor, it was announced yesterday by the National Rifle Association of America.

The new instructor passed a series of tests and served a prescribed period of time in training activities before receiving certification. He is now qualified to conduct local classes in firearms operation, safe gun-handling, and the techniques of shooting on the target range in the field.

Preserved Wood

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Workmen digging the foundation for a town building came up with some pieces of perfectly preserved wood believed to be between 10 and 30 million years old.

They were unearthed when a construction rig drilling holes for the foundation bored into the marl, a putty-like, grayish-blue clay, about 65 feet down.

Pocono Attractions Billed In State Events Calendar

HARRISBURG — Residents of the Poconos should have no complaints for a lack of regional attractions.

The Poconos did quite well in the Pennsylvania alendar of Events booklet for the months of July, August and September. The booklet is distributed by the Travel Development Bureau in Harrisburg.

The Christ Church at Hamilton Square which predates the American Revolution; the covered bridge at Swiftwater which dates from 1778; the Dorflinger Glass Display Room at White Mills, west of Hawley; the Stourbridge Lion at Honesdale which is an exact replica of the first steam locomotive used in the United States.

Also the Stroud Mansion in Stroudsburg which was built in 1795 and served as a refuge and as a fort during the Revolution. It is now home of the Monroe County Historical Society. The Delaware Water Gap scenic attraction.

The Dutch Gardens in Tannersville has beautiful floral displays in a lovely natural woodland setting and is open daily, evenings, and weekends. The Monroe County Historial Society is said to have an excellent collection of historical objects of Monroe County.

Other museums listed are the Quiet Valley Farm Museum, 3½ miles west of Stroudsburg on Rt. 209, and the Wayne County Historical Museum in Honesdale.

The Hamlin Airpark on Rt. 209, 1 mile east of Stroudsburg, has scenic air tours of the Pocono Mountains area. The hydro - electic plant in Hawley offers guided tours of the huge plant at Wilsonville Dam.

New Book Sets High In Circulation

Reflecting the increasing significance of catalog shopping, Sears, Roebuck and Co. said today that its new fall-winter book is larger, more colorful and is going to more homes than any other catalog in the company's 78-year history.

Now being distributed, the 1964 fall-winter general catalog:

Weighs in at five pounds and 12 ounces, and contains a record 1,764 pages — 110 more than last year.

Has 591 full color pages, comprising more than one-third of the book.

Will reach 11 million families across the nation, compared with 10 million last year.

The increased size and circulation, Sears said, are tangible evidence of the growing popularity of catalog shopping. New methods of catalog shopping and distribution account for the continuing trend, the company pointed out.

While Sears began as a mail order company, for many years the company's retail stores have accounted for the bulk of its sales. The catalog, however, continues to set new sales records each year, and in 1963, accounted for 23 per cent of Sears $5.1 billion volume.

Most of Sears catalog sales come through the catalog desks of retail stores, catalog sales offices and — in large metropolitan areas — telephone sales offices.

Sears new fall-winter catalog, which contains more than 140,000 merchandise items, offers the most complete line ever presented in a catalog.

Apparel for the family occupies nearly 800 pages of the book, with the largest increase in space devoted to children's wear. Home furnishings, housewares fashions and home improvement sections of the catalog also have added space.

The first 158 pages, all in full color, present the fashion story for fall; more dressy clothes for after - five wear, more solid - color wools, more tweeds and nubby textures. Topping the fashion news are name designers hats by Lilly Dache, Mr. John, Sally Victor, Emme, Betmar, and Amy, as well as new fashions created by Mme. Claude Riviere, Parisian couturiere.

Among other highlights of the book are:

. . . Nine full pages of yarns and supplies, reflecting greatly increased interest in knitting.

. . . Four pages of guitars, banjos, electric guitars, microphones and amplifiers, demonstrating continuing interest in folk singing and hootenannies.

. . . A new all-seasons room conditioner, designed to heat one to two rooms with gas in winter, and air condition with electricity in summer.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: I have recently been given a large collection of hand tools, such as screwdrivers, pliers, etc. All of them are in good condition, but they do not have insulated handles, as so many of the new tools have. I expect to be doing some work around electricity and I would like to insulate the handles to make them completely safe. Can you tell me how to do this?

ANSWER: The only way to insure complete safety in working around electricity is to know exactly what you are doing — and even then, you'd better be sure that what you are doing conforms to electrical codes in your community. The simplest way to insulate metal handles is to wrap them in rubber tape or plastic electrical tape. Or you can buy one of the rubber compounds sold in the liquid form. The handle is dipped into the compound, forming a rubber mold when hardening takes place. Follow the instructions carefully, since some compounds require more than a single coat to insure insulation.

QUESTION: I intend to put up wood paneling over furring strips attached to a plaster wall. I understand there are several ways the panels can be attached to the furring strips. Can you tell me something about this?

ANSWER: Yes, there are a number of ways to attach the wood panels to the furring strips. The simplest is merely to nail up the wood panels with finishing nails alng the edges of the panels. The disadvantage of this method is that the heads of the nails are visible. But this can be overcome by punching the nail heads slightly below the surface of the wood and filling the tiny holes with wood filler. Another method is to combine wood glue with nails; that is, apply glue to the furring strips, and then nail the panels in place. This makes a stronger installation than with nails alone, but creates the same problem of the nail heads. There are two ways to eliminate this problem. One is to attach the wood panels with special clips, the other is to attach them with contact cement. The metal-clip system works only with special, prefinished panels.

Tihee Beach Now Open

STROUDSBURG — New on the swimming scene is Tihee Beach, located on Brodhead's Creek, N. Fifth St. extension, Route 191 about one-half mile above Stokes Ave.

The new operation boasts refreshing mountain water with imported sand beach and picnic tables.

The surroundings are beautiful and it's perfect for families. The kids can really enjoy themselves while mom and dad relax.

IS ALL IMPORTANT

Capacity is the most important consideration in selecting a new water heater for your home, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. Standards of cleanliness are higher today than ever and many of the new appliances use quantities of hot water in performing their services. It pays to get the advice of a good plumbing contractor in choosing a water heater, the Bureau adds.

When you're ready to build a home beyond the city water mains, be sure you get a quality water system, says the Water Systems Council.

To be sure you receive the maximum benefit of an unrestricted water supply, deal with the expert water systems dealer. Today's skilled experts know how to provide country homes with water so plentiful, safe, and trouble-free that the homeowner will seldom give the water supply a second thought.

Cy Barrett Says

Collectors' Psychology

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

Expose bill collectors for what they are! They make enormous profits on the financial misery of families like us. A collector keeps calling by long distance telephone asking that we pay $50 left of an air conditioner bill. We bought it in 1962 and when it ceased to cool the house, we just quit paying.

MRS. VERTES

DEAR MRS. VERTES:

This may be hard to swallow, but you have the wrong attitude entirely. The collector is actually doing you a favor by constantly reminding you to pay what you contracted for. By paying now, you can avoid possible time consuming litigation, court costs, weakening your husband's position with his employer, worry and destruction of credit privileges.

You can also enjoy self-respect, should that hold any value. The collection agency's commission is 33 and one-third per cent to 50 per cent but, unless it employs magicians, it won't get rich on your bill. The average net profit for the country's 5,000 collection agencies is 2 per cent.

Today's professionals are a new breed, compared to drivers of horse-drawn red wagons, emblazoned with "Bill Collector," which were parked in front of debtors' houses in the old days. Modern practitioners work with finesse, psychology . . . not dynamite. Instead of blasting, they prefer to persuade and tell the benefits of paying owed money . . . now!

Professionals appreciate our economy runs on credit and have a sense of public responsibility in keeping consumers solvent and out of bankruptcy. Give them their due.

CY

DEAR CY:

There's nothing wrong with buying things at wholesale prices. Despite your insipid, stupid comment that the radio I bought through a national wholesale club cost more than it would at a local retail store, I will continue to give them my business. I will continue to buy at wholesale and save.

MRS. DURANT

DEAR MRS. DURANT:

O.K., I'm a bumbling bargain hunter. I still can't seem to find retail organizations who knowingly offer all their merchandise at wholesale prices . . . yet sell in single units. Congratulations! This puzzler has been stumping the Better Business Bureaus, too.

CY

DEAR CY:

"When you are in sorrow, the world pities you" is pure nonsense. This is not true and no one pities me. I have a B.S. degree in education but unfortunately am not seeking professional work. All I want is a list of plants and factories, which are in the process of hiring young men for work. I will take any kind of a job, including being a laborer, helper or trainee in a plant.

BOB

DEAR BOB:

Consult boards of education — city, county and state. I get letters in every mail from deserving men and women with no formal education who need work. Without having paid the cost of a college education, they know tears are tickets to oblivion.

Having researched the teaching field, I can report the demand for kindergarten and elementary school teachers, secondary school teachers, college and university faculty members is up, up, up. Quit grinding yourself down, down, down.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Monday, July 20, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Watch for some confusing elements that could sneak in unnoticed. Your Mars influences are good, but you could go too far out on a limb if not careful. Some old patterns changing.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — There's a tendency here to let things ride, "not bother," which, at any time, is an error, but now, especially, could well mean losing a vantage point and some big gains later. Keep in trim, alert.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — If you tried and did not attain, review well before trying the same again. A new method could turn the trick. Just don't become discouraged.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some "don'ts" and "ifs" with which to reckon; your ingenuity and perception should aid. Don't press too hard and find that "later" was THE time.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A certain amount of daring could be profitable but too much could put you way off base. Use care in banking, travel, organization work. Don't be afraid to admit a mistake.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — As with most Zodiacal natives, pull up the reins to look for hidden obstacles, undesirable detours and roads you SHOULD take but will not if you are too hasty. Eyes front!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You have freer movement now than many others. You may realize (or come closer to) the realization of a cherished ambition. Steady the hand, give plenty of thought to plans.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Several pieces falling into place. Both mental and manual dexterity encouraged. Outstanding thinkers will head uphill smartly. Don't be drawn into unwise compromises, methods.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter propitious. The day calls for distinctiveness and originality, plus meticulous care in all matters. But all this can lead to fine gains.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — New responsibilities, likely now, should not distress you. New benefits will accompany them, and all will add up to a more interesting life. Some forces are waiting to trap you, however: heed and read between the lines.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Certain things definitely OUT of order, other prominently "in." Use good judgment. Shift amenably where it will benefit the total picture. Avoid extremes.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — You, who are innately inclined to employ your talents for the universal good, should enjoy this day and its many benefits. Not all gains will be obvious, but others should be evident enough for a stimulating try.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a bright mind, are usually agile, graceful; a careful though not necessarily high-style dresser. You are conservative but will take a chance where you see a sound profit clearly in view; are fitted for finance, banking, industry. Many of you become quiet, slow but safe pleasure investors, business heads. Books, people, art, music, dancing, helping worthy causes are on your choice list. Curb excesses, nervousness, and a runaway imagination. Birthdate of: Francesco Petrarch, Italian poet.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Washington Report

Barry's Party Strength Opposite Public Polls

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — The contrast between Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater's power at the Republican Convention and his poor showing in public opinion polls reflects the forces which have brought Goldwater to the 1964 GOP Presidential nomination.

Goldwater's long - cultivated support among GOP professionals and the flounderings of the party's moderates proved a substitute for a popular groundswell in his support, moreover, the grassroots support which the Senator did enjoy was unique in its enthusiasm and activity.

Party Pros

To party professionals in the delegations at San Francisco, Goldwater is an old, reliable ally.

As chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee from 1955 to 1963, Goldwater campaigned tirelessly on behalf of GOP liberals and conservatives alike. He was a real money - maker for the party and one of its most popular campaign speakers.

Goldwater's service as a party wheel - horse, his 1960 Convention appeal for conservative loyalty in backing of the Nixon - Lodge ticket and his role in bringing the South into the Republican fold have not been forgotten by the party pros gathered in the Cow Palace.

Moderate Disunity

The lack of a strong, unified opposition from Republican moderates aided in the tremendous growth of conservative influence in the party.

Lulled by results of public opinion polls and overconfident of their security within the GOP leadership hierarchy, the moderates seriously underestimated Goldwater and conservative strength on the state and local party levels.

Moderate candidates who might have halted the Goldwater drive gradually fell from the race. Richard M. Nixon retired from politics after losing the California Governorship election in 1962. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage ended his strong lead for the nomination.

Other moderate candidates — Govs. William W. Scranton, (Pa.) and George W. Romney, (Mich.) and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge — failed actively to battle Goldwater for the nomination.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, refused to stand in favor of any candidate. Even when the crucial test arrived following Goldwater's California victory, his vote against the civil rights bill and Scranton's declaration of candidacy, Eisenhower preserved his neutrality in the contest.

S-burg A's Boost Lead; Bushkill Ties For 2nd

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg A's wore their hitting shoes yesterday and their booming bats reeled off 18 hits to send Kunkletown down to a resounding 15-6 defeat. The victory increased the first-place tie with Kunkletown. West End came up with its first victory of the season after 14 straight setbacks by trimming Bowmanstown, 8-1, and Saylorsburg defeated the Stroudsburg Poconos, 6-1.

The A's, in a batting slump for more than a month, came out slugging against their nearest competitors, Hartley Paffenroth and Bob Rentschler each collected three hits for the winners, with Paffenroth banging four RBIs and Rentschler adding three more.

Barrow Winner

Charley Chronister, who hit safely twice, also batted across three runs. Other A's who collected two hits apiece were Larry Clausen, Charley Eden, and winning pitcher Tom Barrow.

Rentschler also slammed a three-run homer for the A's in the eighth.

The A's jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning but led by only 5-2 at the end of four. Then, the winners pushed across a tally in the fifth and added four each in the sixth and seventh rounds and chalked up three more in the eighth on Rentschler's shot into the woods with two aboard.

Hurls Shutout

George Brommer hurled an eight - hit shoutout for Bushkill to blank Reeders, 3-0, and move into a second-place tie with Kunkletown. Paul Frailey went the route for the losers yielding only five hits while striking out 11.

Bowmanstown committed 12 errors to hand West End its first victory of the season, 8-1. None of the runs scored in the game was earned.

The Gilbert nine tallied three runs in the first inning, added a singleton in the fifth and pumped across four in the sixth to gain the nod.

Gerry Bond and Steve Zegalia swatted solo homers to pace Saylorsburg to a 6-1 triumph over the Stroudsburg Poconos.

The Lakers scored in each of the first four innings, gaining a 5-0 lead at that point while Clint Allen twirled a strong three-hitter. Warren Loney hurled the distance for the losers pitching a seven-hitter.

Callison's Circuit Gives Phils Split

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Callison clouted a three-run homer in the ninth inning boosting Philadelphia to a 4-3 triumph over Cincinnati and a split of their doubleheader Sunday. The Reds won the opener 7-4.

The split, coupled with San Francisco's doubleheader sweep of Houston, sliced the Phillies' National League lead over the Giants to four percentage points, .591 to .587.

The Reds led 2-1 going into the ninth. Clay Dalrymple led off with a single and Cookie Rojas walked after John Herrnstein struck out. Bill Henry replaced Ryne Duren, and Callison slammed his 15th homer into the right field bleachers, duplicating his All-Star Game feat.

Reds Rally

The Reds rallied for a run in their ninth on Gordon Coleman's double and Pete Rose's single, but Chris Short came on and after walking Don Pavletich, got Vada Pinson to hit into a game-ending force play.

Cincinnati came from behind with four runs in the eighth inning for the first-game triumph. A walk, Pinson's second triple of the game and Deron Johnson's third hit, a single, produced the tying and winning runs. Pavletich ended the scoring with a two-run homer.

Resume Schedule

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Babe Ruth League will resume its regular schedule tonight at 6 o'clock.

The Exchange Club plays Line Material at Lim's Field, and VFW meets the Eagles at East Stroudsburg playground.

Yankees, Indians Divide

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Tiant, making his first major league appearance, stopped New York on four hits, pitching Cleveland to a 3-0 victory over the Yankees and a split of their doubleheader Sunday. The Yankees won the opener 6-2 behind the pitching of Roland Sheldon.

The split dropped the Yankees into third place in the American League race, one-half game behind the Chicago White Sox, who swept a doubleheader from Kansas City, and 1½ games behind the pace-setting Baltimore Orioles, who defeated Detroit in a single game.

Tiant, a 23-year-old right-hander brought up to the Indians just two days ago, allowed only a hunt single by Tom Tresh through the first five innings. The other Yankee hits also were singles.

Tiant struck out 11 and walked four as he outpitched Whitey Ford, who suffered his third setback against 12 victories.

Orioles Nip Tigers, 5-4

BALTIMORE (AP) — The American League leading Baltimore Orioles defeated Detroit 5-4 Sunday with the only single game on a crowded major league schedule producing an unusual battle of home runs in spacious Memorial Stadium.

The Orioles, by winning, maintained their one-game lead. Chicago, however, replaced New York in the second spot. The White Sox won a doubleheader while the Yankees split.

Each team slugged three solo homers, with Boog Powell, Sam Bowens and Charley Lau connecting in the first two innings off Tiger starter Dennis McLain for a 3-0 Baltimore lead.

Baltimore's rookie sensation, Wally Bunker, was credited with his 10th victory against two losses but he failed to finish when Detroit found the home-run range late in the game.

McGuire, O'Mara Buck Hill Victors

BUCK HILL FALLS — Bill McGuire and Gerry O'Mara defeated Richie Remsen and E. M. Geddes on the 19th hole in the annual Spencer L. Jones member-guest best ball golf tournament.

McGuire, who won the tournament last year with another guest, knocked in a 30-foot putt from the apron the 19th hole after both teams had birdied the 18th to remain even.

Second division winners were Ted Starr and R. H. Bergh, who defeated John Nelson and Jim Reid, three and two.

Third division champions were Marty Baldwin and Jim Ottaway Jr. who defeated Dr. Charles Millwater and Rob O'Mara, four and three.

Fourth division winners were Arnold Carlson and Jim Manhart who defeated Alden Bennett and Lou Robbins one up.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Young Bobby Nichols pulled off recovery shots like a fairway Houdini Sunday and stood off a blazing surge by defender Jack Nicklaus to win the 46th PGA Golf Championship with a record score of 271.

The baby-faced 28-year-old Louisville professional, unconcernedly banging out of trouble to salvage his pars and rolling in putts from unbelievable distances, closed with a three-under-par 67 in steamy heat and threat-grabbing pressure.

He led every round although he was chased by the most feared competitors in the game —first Arnold Palmer, later Mason Rudolph and finally Nicklaus.

Nicklaus Ties Palmer

The bull-shouldered, 24-year-old Nicklaus, playing before a home town gallery of 17,500, rallied from six shots back with a six-under-par 64 to tie Palmer for second place at 274.

Palmer shot a final 69 and Rudolph, the near-sighted Tennessean, took fourth money with a 69 for 276.

The best previous 72-hole total in this event was the 276 by Dow Finsterwald in capturing the first medal tournament after the changeover from match play in 1958.

Nicklaus' spectacular closing 64 over the 6,851-yard, par 70 Columbus Country Club course matched the record 64 fashioned by Nicklaus in the opening round.

Young Nichols led every round.

Spectators Gasp

In the opening round he sank putts of 30 and 40 feet. He scrambled through the second and third rounds, playing recovery shots from all sorts of hazards that left the spectators gasping.

"I wouldn't believe it if I hadn't seen it myself," Nichols said.

His shot-making magic never left on this sweltering, 90-degree final day.

He knocked in an eagle on the 526-yard, downhill 64th hole to break out of a three-way tie with Palmer and Rudolph and soar two shots ahead.

With Nicklaus, Palmer and Rudolph continuing to press, the young Kentuckian ran in a difficult 15-foot putt on the 69th hole to go three ahead and he clinched with a 35-footer on the 71st hole that sent the big gallery into a roaring frenzy.

Four-Man Fight

It was a four-man fight all the way although the amazing Ben Hogan, still the master at 51, made a stab at the front-runner when he went under par on the opening holes of his final round.

Walking laboriously on legs that were shattered in 1949 by a near fatal automobile accident, the grim-faced Texas Hawk closed with a gallant 72 for 282. The fans gave him a standing reception and Hogan tipped his familiar white cap in a gesture of appreciation.

Hogan finished in a tie with Tony Lema, the British Open champion, who shot a final 71, Bill Casper, 72, and outsider Jon Gustin of Westfield, N.J., with an almost overlooked 66.

Venturi 5th

Ken Venturi, the new U.S. Open champion, fired a 69 for 279 and a tie for fifth place with Tom Nieporte of Locust Valley, N.Y., with a final 72. Bo Wininger, 41-year-old Las Vegas teaching pro, was even par at 280 after a par 70.

Nichols is a strapping 6-foot-2, 200 pound all-round athlete who once won a football scholarship to Texas A&M. He started on the tour in 1960 and has won three tour tournaments.

In 1952 at the age of 16 he was almost killed in an automobile accident. There was fear that he might never walk again, much less play golf. But through sheer determination, he made the road back.

Bags An Eagle

Nichols bagged an eagle at the 10th—the 64th hole of the tournament — where he hit a booming drive, laced a one-iron onto the green and then sank a put of 35 feet.

On the 578-yard final hole, Nicklaus reached the green with two prodigious blows and had a 30-foot putt for an eagle and a record-setting 63.

The ball veered just six inches from the cup, and the crowd groaned.

Palmer, the game's most renowned charger, made a solid effort—just as in the U.S. Open last month when he again came close—but Nichols never gave him an opening.

Warning Letter To St. Swithin

An open letter to St. Swithin

Dear St. Swithin:

We hope you realize that your actions lately could lead to the downfall of America.

Your commemorative day is July 15. According to legend, if it rains on your day, it will rain for 40 days afterward.

Well, it hasn't come true at least since 1958 — we checked back that far.

If your legend doesn't come true — it could have the most dire consequences: kids would stop believing in legends, they'd stop believing in Santa Claus.

If they didn't believe in Santa Claus, their parents would stop buying them Christmas presents; if no Christmas presents were bought, the American economy would take a nose-dive.

If America entered another depression, we would be left weak and vulnerable to our enemies. It could well mean the end of the U.S.

Here's The Record

Let's look at the record:

1964: it rained July 15 and 16; no rain July 17.

1963: it rained July 15, no rain on the 16th.

1962: it didn't rain on July 15.

1961: pretty good: it rained from July 15 every day until July 26, even if some of the days had only showers.

1960: no rain July 15.

1959: rained July 15, not on the 16th.

1958: rained July 15 and 16, no rain on the 17th.

In this election year, that's not a strong platform, even for a legend.

Retiring Veterans Finding Age Against Job Market

STROUDSBURG — Veterans who find it harder to get a job today shouldn't feel they're alone, according to Ben Overholts, employment service supervisor at the Pennsylvania State Employment Service in Stroudsburg.

"Veterans of World War II are roughly 45 years old now," Overholts said. "They're in the same boat as everyone else in the population; the older you get, the harder it is to get a new job."

In addition, he said, many veterans who are now retiring from the service find it difficult to accept the fact that they are beginners in industry, and must accept beginners wages.

Some Skills Obsolete

Finally, he added, many long-time service veterans find that skills learned in the armed forces are obsolete in modern industry.

Overholts said employment problems in Monroe County are relatively slight, since resort work annually requires the importation of thousands of workers into the area. He added that industry in the county is quite diversified, and said, "Most veterans with something to offer an employer can get a job easily."

Finally, Overholts said that "You can't find a better group of employers to give veterans priority."

Donald Spencer, veterans employment representative at the agency, explained that anyone who has served in the armed forces during a war is required by law to be called first for any job openings that become available.

Handicapped veterans who register with the state employment service are placed in the front of the available file. These records are searched first for someone with the qualifications wanted by a prospective employer.

File Searched

Next the regular veterans file is searched, followed by that of non-veterans. Spencer stressed the fact that servicemen who have not served during a war receive no priority. Whether former officer or private, the veterns are all treated exactly the same, he said. However, the former officer may have training more suited to modern industry.

Veterans seeking jobs may also make use of employment services operated by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, according to Overholts.

"We can find a jo bior almost any veteran who wants one," he said. "But he may have to get dirty working at it. Most of the jobs here are in industry, and some veterans are unwilling to take that kind of job."

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and Iran have signed a one-year trade agreement, providing for most favorable treatment to each other's goods.

A boy in business for himself doesn't worry about summer jobs

Or fall jobs, or winter jobs, for that matter. Because the boy with a newspaper route—a junior independent merchant—has a year 'round income. The few hours he puts in each week not only provide monetary returns but the even more significant dividends of learning how free enterprise operates.

The business of learning the value of money, of keeping books, collecting, buying at wholesale and selling at retail is important. But not even money can buy the other skills acquired from route experience—learning to deal pleasantly with people, for instance, or the value of punctuality.

Your newspaperboy is learning all the time. His route experience helps him acquire the intangible skills so necessary for success both socially and professionally. He makes money at it, too.

Only about one boy in ten gets the opportunity to have a newspaper route. If you think your son or some other youngster might profit by newspaperboy route experience, why not suggest that he come in and talk to us.

Bible Reading Unconstitutional

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—A three-judge panel in U.S. District Court declared compulsory Bible reading and recital of the Lord's Prayer in Delaware public schools unconstitutional.

The panel unanimously held that state laws requiring Bible reading and prayer and penalties for teachers or principals who fail to enforce the statutes come within the ban of the First Amendment to the federal Constitution.

The amendment prohibits Congress, and by federal judicial interpretation, state legislatures from making laws concerning "an establishment of religion."

The 18-page opinion, written by Chief Judge John Biggs Jr., of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, granted a permanent injunction against the statutes to Mr. and Mrs. W. Harry Johns Jr., whose three children are pupils in East Dover elementary school.

Health Dept. Wants New Law

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Health Department reported it will meet with more than a dozen organizations to discuss a proposed amendment to the clean streams law.

Dr. Charles L. Wilbar, health secretary and chairman of the Sanitary Water Board, said the department-sponsored proposal has been approved by the board.

Provisions of the proposed amendment, which would require legislative approval, would:

—Eliminate references to acid mine drainage in the law and provide for handling such drainage in the same manner as any other type of industrial waste.

—Give the board specific powers to suspend and revoke mine drainage permits.

—Make landowners and tenants responsible for prevention of stream pollution.

Dr. Wilbar said dates for the meetings would be set later.

Dr. Wilbar also said the board would welcome an investigation of its operations by a legislative committee.

Monsignor To Bless Vehicles

NESQUEHONING — A week is being set aside for the blessing of vehicles and their occupants by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Agnello J. Angelini, pastor of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Nesquehoning.

The blessing will start after every day next week, and will end July 26 at 8 p.m.

The blessings will be imparted on the rectory lawn in front of a life-size statue of St. Christopher — the patron saint of travelers.

The church is located on U.S. routes 209 - 45 west of exit 34 (Mahoning Valley) of the northeast extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Motorists may ask for the blessings after 2 p.m. on both Sundays and every day of the week, as well as after the 7:30 a.m. daily mass. They may also come for the blessings between 10 a.m. and 12 noon from Monday to Saturday.

Included are plans for a canopy over the audience, he added.

Events will begin at noon each day August 7 through 14, and 10 a.m. on August 15. Acts will appear periodically until about 11:30 p.m., Leidig said.

Groups appearing will include the Rube Band, Allentown Band, Marine Band, Pioneer Band; orchestras of Bud Rader, Stan Keiser and Joe Resetar; the Watts Clark Trio; the Humoresques; the Allenaires; disc jockey Jay Sands; and swaying pole performer Bettina.

State Tightens Food Surplus

HARRISBURG (AP) — Penn*sylvania has tightened* its eligibility requirements for participation in its surplus food distribution program.

The new limitations, imposed last May 1, have resulted in a decrease in the number of families participating in the program, but the state is attempting to liberalize the new requirements somewhat.

Robert Freiler, director of the Bureau of Surplus Foods in the *state Property and Supplies De*partment, said the new restriction was applied at the direction of the federal government, which administers the over-all program.

It requires that liquid assets —such as cash-on-hand, money in the bank or negotiable stocks and bonds — be considered in determining eligibility.

Non-Swimmer, 20, Drowns

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. — Clyde Howey, 20, of Port Jervis, N.Y. drowned Friday in the Neversink River after he fell from a rope on which he was swinging 30 feet over the water.

Police said he was a nonswimmer.

Channel Swim

DOVER, England (AP)—A 13-year-old American girl, Leonora Modell of Sacramento, Calif., will attempt to swim the English Channel next month, one of her trainers said Sunday.

Where do you go from here?

An assembly line modernizes. A new machine replaces five or six men. New methods do away with certain jobs entirely. Something like this could happen to your job.

It's part of progress, of course. But progress has a partner—opportunity. Improved methods and techniques will, in turn, create many new jobs. However—

You won't get tomorrow's jobs with yesterday's skills

You'll have to be qualified to earn one of these newer, better-paying jobs. You'll have to re-train—acquire new skills and abilities. And if you begin now, you'll still have a head start on the future.

Don't wait for your present job to be replaced. Have a better job before it happens. The local office of your state employment service will gladly talk it over with you

Train now for tomorrow's jobs
